Resources for Research, School of Psychology

Full-time internal PhD students are routinely provided with the following resources by the School of Psychology:

1. Office space, a dedicated computer, and connection to internet services.
2. Access to general office facilities (e.g. fax, mail, stationery, photocopiers, printers).
3. Library photocopying credit and use of inter-library loan facilities.
4. Funding for presentation of research at either a national conference ($1300 maximum) or an international conference ($1650 maximum).
5. Access to the supervisor’s laboratory facilities.
6. An average of $500 per annum to cover incidental costs such as reimbursement of participants, copyright charges for published tests, the downloading of course materials, etc.