CONFIRMATION OF CANDIDATURE

FOR PH.D. STUDENTS

FACULTY OF LAW

(Adopted by the Faculty of Law Research Committee, 9 June 2014)

The Faculty of Law expects that Ph.D. candidates will have completed the following tasks by the end of their first year of candidature:

- Preparing and submitting the Research Proposal and having it approved by the Graduate Research School;
- Attending all orientation and training programme events provided by the Law Faculty;
- Attending any other training recommended by your supervisors;
- Completing a substantial piece of writing which should be one of the following, as agreed with your supervisors: a literature review, an explanation of methodology to be followed in the thesis or a draft of a substantive chapter;
- Applying for and obtaining any approvals necessary for the thesis, particularly ethics approval, unless your supervisors recommend applying for approval later in your research;
- Giving a presentation of your research to staff and fellow HDR students
